

August 4,2012

My name is Anna Rivera.I have been an Alzheimer's Caregiver for over 20 years in both private homes and assisted living facilities.

I have experienced Alzheimer's conditions in patients and caring for them is often a series of grief experiences . As I have watched their memories disappear and cognitive skills decline.Their brain cells has either gone to sleep or have died. This disease has destroyed their ability to rationally think clearly and brings on behavioral issues, confusion, fear and frustration for them.

The therapeutic activities that Zekel Healthcare device will provide such as music, video and photos of family members; etc will be beneficial to both the patient and caregiver. This device will bring focus, interaction, stimulation and comfort for the Alzheimer's patient. As for the caregiver keeping the patient occupied with activities through this device will allow us to step away and complete other tasks such as doing laundry, preparing meals and and so on.

I recommend this device and believe it will be an asset not only to the patient but to the caregiver and families of patients as well.

Sincerely,
Anna Rivera